

About Trevis

Trevis is a passionate speaker who enjoys sharing the ups and downs of his life. He uses his various experiences as a teacher and guide to lead people, both young and not so young, to create the life that they aspire to live.

Trevis has created, organized, and facilitated youth conferences for children ages 10-18 while partnering with local companies to provide life-changing experiences for each attendee. He has also mobilized college youth and adults to volunteer and learn how to serve their community. He has also mentored youth and young adults and uses those opportunities to inspire entrepreneurship.

As a Dad of elementary, middle, and high school children, he has parented varying age groups and has learned to find balance in co-parenting situations & leading a blended family.

Trevis has addressed audiences in small groups to large auditoriums. He uses these opportunities to share the pros and cons of entrepreneurship & social media. He shows the audiences how to use the benefits as a tool to connect resources to better their careers and community.
